Intercultural debrief

A three step debriefing:

- Help participants to identify the learnings
 - Help participants to imagine how they can apply the learning to their daily life
 - Come to a shared understanding about why the activities were conducted

Intercultural debrief

5 tricks for an intercultural debriefing:

- Distinguish between personal, situational and cultural elements
- Connect the activity to your audience's reality
- Adapt your communication style
- Keep it multidimensional (hands, heart, head)
- Recognize and encourage healthy conflict but do not avoid conflict

“The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good people to do nothing”
